Let's Focus On

HOLIDAYS CAN BE STRESSFUL FOR CHILDREN TOO!

The holidays can be quite frantic and difficult for a young child to manage. There is a great deal of stimulation in a child's everyday world anyway—television, computers, toys, child care, etc. During the holidays other things are added such as more shopping trips, family gatherings, and other activities. This can be a very stressful time for a preschooler who may act out and/or have temper tantrums due to this over stimulation. During the holiday season, try to simplify your child's life. Try to stay in as normal a routine as possible—regular meal times, bedtimes and family times. Have daily conversations with your child about what is happening at school and encourage them to talk about their feelings. Also giving your child choices—"Do you want to wear the blue shirt or the red shirt today?" rather than making choices for them will help them. Having the opportunity to make choices allows your child to have some control over his/her world which frequently prevents acting out behaviors.

HELP US SPREAD THE WORD!

Principal Wright's Corner

Please help support our school's service project for collecting canned foods for God's Storehouse. The bad weather also reminds me to tell you to go to www.danvillepublicschools.org for school related closings. If you are not receiving the Danville Public Schools Weather calls (799-6400) then our computer system does not have your updated phone number. If your number has changed, please come to school to make the change in the office. We don't want you to miss any important information. We hope to see you and your child virtually at our Read A Loud event. It's Wednesday, December 8th at 6:00. The student will bring home a book and hot chocolate for this event. Get a blanket so you can snuggle up with your child to read a book. Don't worry, we will give you some tips on how to make it fun. Thank you so much for sharing your wonderful children with us each day.

WHAT AM I READING?

- Pizza at Sally's
- Froggy Eats Out
- Little Nino's Pizzeria
- Going to a Restaurant

We are enjoying our Restaurant theme and pretending great scenarios like ordering from the ice cream parlor and making pizza! Your children are developing great imaginations!

We are practicing self-regulation with our freeze dance to help enjoy music and practice controlling our body. You can practice at home by playing any music and then starting and stopping it in between and have your child "freeze" in place when the music stops.

Our "Science Eyes" in the next few months will focus on collections of materials for children to practice observing similarities and differences.

We will continue with Attention Focusing Activities, Community Building Activities and Self-Regulation Activities while learning our literacy and math skills through play.
